Meet Paula R. Jenkins:

Paula R Jenkins was born and raised in Chicago, IL. She graduated from Whitney M Young Magnet High School, Tuskegee University with a BS in Computer Information Systems, and DePaul University with an MBA with a concentration in Change Management and Leadership Development. She is a certified coach, DISC consultant, and Licensed Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion Trainer. She worked in corporate America for nearly 20 years and, during this time, led many teams. Paula considers herself a servant leader and, over the past 30 years, has volunteered her time with many organizations and won awards for her servant leadership. She is the founder and owner of LFS Consulting LLC, where they believe true leaders create more leaders.

Paula believes everything begins and ends with communication. She learned this powerful lesson with two numbers - 180 and 140 - her blood pressure in October 2017. She was in a toxic work environment with a manager who did not know how to communicate and was a dismissive leader. She has made it her passion to change the world one conversation at a time. Paula believes we have the power to be great leaders, but we have to recognize that we can be taught leadership skills - and it can be taught.

Paula R. Jenkins is now traveling the world speaking at Live and Virtual events helping men and women both personally and professionally empowering them with the tools and knowledge to lead authentically. She knows the power of understanding their communication style, EQ (emotional intelligence), and authentic voice. Paula shares her own methodologies and gives them engaging, valuable, and actionable steps to be a better leader. She is committed to helping individuals and organizations improve leadership dynamics, achieve financial success, and nurture an inclusive culture.

Despite her extensive education and experience, Paula R. Jenkins remains humble, authentic and a very engaging speaker.
